

SS_T uses the differences between the observed data and the mean value of Y

SS_R uses the differences between the observed data and the model

SS_M uses the differences between the mean value of Y and the model

